National Youth Day Celebrations

In honour of Swami Vivekananda's birthday on January 12, National Youth Day, also known as Vivekananda Jayanti, is observed. This day was designated National Youth Day by the Indian government in 1984. Since then, it has been observed annually in India. He was an influential person in 19th-century India and a staunch believer in the power of youth. Swami Vivekananda espoused ideas and ideologies that could serve as an important source of inspiration for young people in India. Purvanchal University also celebrate this day as a National Youth Day with great enthusiasm.

National Science Day

On the recommendation of the National Council for Science and Technology Communication (NCSTC), the Government of India declared February 28th as National Science Day in 1986. On this day CV Raman discovered the Raman Effect for which he was awarded the Nobel Prize in Physics in 1930. The first National Science Day was celebrated on February 28, 1987. Since 1987, the occasion has been commemorated nationwide in academic, scientific, technical, medical, and research institutions such as schools, colleges, and universities. Every year, students engage passionately in National Science Day celebrations at the university. The celebration includes various events like quiz competitions, rangolis, posters, science exhibitions, research demonstrations, debates, and many more activities. On this day seminars are also organized. In seminars, distinguished professors and experts from various institutes gave lectures and made some fruitful interactions with the students and research scholars.

International Yoga Day

Yoga is regarded as an ancient practice that began in India more than 5,000 years ago. Yoga was created as a technique to unite the mind, body, and spirit in order to progress toward enlightenment. It was promoted as a form of exercise and relaxation as the practice gained popularity in the west, along with claims that it might help with chronic pain and physical ailments as well as improve overall health. Indian Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi first suggested June 21st as an International Yoga Day, during his speech at the UN General Assembly in September 27, 2014. The date of June 21 was proposed by him since it is the longest day of the year in the Northern Hemisphere and has significant meaning in many cultures. Purvanchal University celebrated the International Yoga day every year with a lot of joy and glee. University also organises Yoga Yatra on eve of the International Yoga day. Officers, teachers, employees, students and residents of the university participate in the Yoga Yatra in large numbers.

Teacher's Day

Every year on September 5, India commemorates Teachers' Day to recognize the contributions of teachers to society. The day celebrates the anniversary of Dr. Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan's birth, who served as India's second president and first vice president. Learning is a path to enlightenment. This day is a good opportunity to pay homage to anyone who has made a contribution that deserves to be acknowledged. University celebrated this day every year by garlanding the idol of Dr Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan. Plantation program are organised by the students and the teachers. University honoured the teachers for their outstanding performance in their respective field. Students celebrated this day in their respective departments with a lot of joy and enthusiasm and pay homage to their teachers.
